

Rachel Treichler will give an overview of the powers of local governments in New York to enact laws and will give particular attention to the home rule powers granted by the New York State constitution. She will discuss how these home rule powers may be interpreted if legal challenges are brought to local watershed protection laws and other local laws that may restrict industrial gas development.